

In a process for the recycling of PET flakes from comminuted PET bottles, wherein the flakes are subjected to a washing treatment, the flakes are treated for at least 20 minutes in at least one washer. at an elevated temperature higher than 70°C, with a cleaning solution which contains caustic soda, and at the same time are also mechanically and hydraulically treated.